

Beautiful Baby

© 2015 John J. Freeman (BMI)

In the beginning, there was one single sound
Then that sound started spinning and singing and slinging these beautiful spirals around
Then one came to notice that it wasn't alone
And in that spectacular moment, Love became known

Then these beautiful spirals, as they danced in the dark
They rubbed on each other enough, enough to light up a spark
Then that spark started growing, and becoming a star
And the light kept on flowing and knowing and showing us all that we are

My beautiful baby, right here in my arms
It was all for you, all for you all along
My beautiful baby, right here in my arms
It was all for you, all for you all along

You came from the ocean, you came from the sky
Beauty in motion, so close to divine
Took millions of years to become who we are
Billions and billions of lifetimes to make it this far

My beautiful baby, right here in my arms
It was all for you, all for you all along
My beautiful baby, right here in my arms
It was all for you, all for you all along

Through all of the wars that history knows
Through all of the highs and all of the lows
Through all of the suffering all of the joy
All that's created and all that's destroyed
Through all of the centuries under the sun
Through all of the hard times and all of the fun
Through all of the craziness being man brings
And all of the love that he brings when he sings

My beautiful baby, right here in my arms
It was all for you, all for you all along
My beautiful baby, right here in my arms
It was all for you, all for you all along