

Go To LA

© 2015 John J. Freeman (BMI)

It's only been a couple of years
There's only been a couple of tears
I want to throw back a couple of beers
And listen once again to all the screaming and cheers

See I've picked up my guitar a couple of times
And I've laid down a cold cool couple of rhymes
But I need a little juice to make them shine
And I know a couple boys, good friends of mine

Let's go to LA and get the band back together
Back to the sunshine and the beautiful weather
Back to the freaks on the boulevard, back to the beach and the movie stars
Let's go to LA and get the back back together

We've all had a couple of jobs
Had a couple of kids, heard a couple of sobs
Let's get out the rigs and the big black box
Plug it all in and turn up all the knobs

I'm itching to rock, itching to pound
Some sweet vibrations to the outer bound
When it comes down to slinging some sound
You know I know a couple boys who can sling it around

Let's go to LA and get the band back together
Back to the sunshine and the beautiful weather
Back to the freaks on the boulevard, back to the beach and the movie stars
Let's go to LA and get the back back together

The hope and dream is still alive
Because rock and roll will never die

Let's go to LA and get the band back together
Back to the sunshine and the beautiful weather
Back to the freaks on the boulevard, back to the beach and the movie stars
Let's go to LA and get the back back together

Let's go to LA and get the band back together
Back to the sunshine and the beautiful weather

Back to the freaks on the boulevard, back to the beach and the movie stars

Let's go to LA and get the back back together

Let's go to LA and get the back back together

Let's go to LA and get the back back together

Let's go to LA and get the back back together